HOG SUPPLIES NOT UP TO DEMAND

OFFICE OF PITTSBURG DISPATCH, WEDNESDAY, February 27, 1889. The run of cattle this week has been about 20 carloads less than last week. The total for Monday was 67 loads with very few since. In the receipts this week were 25 loads of good Ohio cattle ranging from 1,400 to 1,500 pounds. One load of extra premium cattle weighing 1,700 were sold to an East End butcher at $4 55. Some four or five loads, eighing 1,400 to 1,500, were bought for New York parties at prices ranging from $3.75 to $4.65. A few bunches from 1,000 to 1,300 pounds were sold at prices ranging from $3.25 to $3.75. There were no low grade cattle in this week's

At the beginning of the week markets were teady, with prices a shade higher than last week on some light grades. Tuesday showed an advance of 5 to 10c on good butcher stock, with the advance well maintained to-day. With one exception this week has been the only time one exception this week has been the only time this year when prices were better on Tuesday than Menday. The rule has been that prices drooped from the beginning of the week. The stockman who shoved his cattle on to market Monday, anticipating the usual condition of hings for the balance of the week, has had —Signor Crispi, the Italian Prime Minister, stated that the temporal power of the Pope is now a thing of the past—a toy for dull hours of mimic and would-be statesmen.

—The woman who shot Harry King, of Chicago, at Omaha, some time ago, refused to be arraigned as Elizabeth Beechler. Her attorney has filed a plea of misnomer and in subsequent pleas she will be called "Mrs. Elizabeth King." When she will be arraigned is only a matter of conjecture, as her counsed has an evident desire to keep her away from the public gaze and have her brought into court without proclaiming it beforehand.

District Attorney Fellows yesterday decided to accept the evidence of Bookkeeper Woodruff against his employers, Ives and Stayner, and Woodruff will be a witness for the State. He has been promised immunity from punishment provided he tells the truth. The grand jury still has the case of Ives and Stayner before them, and will have for some time to come. How a Pittsburg Merchant Was Lifted From Poverty to Affluence.

A BAD DAY FOR LOCAL STOCKS AND OIL

"Poor people, as well as those in moderate circumstances, frequently entertain wrong views of the value to society of men of great wealth," remarked a Wood street merchant yesterday. "They serve a good was excited and the statistical situation growing stronger. There were also some rumors afloat to the effect that the parties who had been known to be interested on the bull side had made financial arrangements to pay for all of the cash wheat to be delivered May I.

Outs were less active and fluctuations were confined to a jerange with the close a fraction lower than yesterday. purpose, whether willingly or not, as I know from my own experience. When quite young I had to strike out for myself. I lived with my parents, who were quite poor. The adjoining house—a fine, large building—was owned and occupied by a man supposed to be worth a million. He and his family seemed to have everything that heart could desire-servants, horses and carriages, fine clothes, the best eatables in the market and everything else that money could buy. We thought they must be very happy. I did not envy them, but their worldly condition was so far above my own that I re-solved to aim high in all my business plans, so as to be able to command some of the luxuries and comforts with which the family was surrounded. I became dissatisfied with my hum-ble condition. My wits were sharpened and my ambition aroused. It was a spur that urged me to attempt greater things than I had thought possible for me to accomplish. I attributed my success in business almost entirely to the change wrought in my aspirations by contact with a wealthy man, "It is wrong," he continued, "to denounce men of wealth as cormorants, blood-suckers and enemies of society. People who hold to this opinion are very short-sighted. On the Produce Exchange to-day the butter wealthy than that all should be poor. Whereever the latter condition prevails, as in some parts of the South and in several European ion broods over everything; there are no great public improvements, no railroads, no big, bustling cities—everybody is on the same dead level, with nothing to excite to activity, no motive to rise above the depressing environ-ment that makes 'one man as good as another.' Society thus constituted is but a slight remove from barbarism. I am glad there are very few such spots in America.

"To show what one rich man can do for a poor community, I will tell you a circumstance that occurred a few years ago. One of my friends removed to Alabama and settled in a community of poor people, who had neither schools nor churches nor roads nor anything else to make them comfortable and happy. Their fields were overrun with weeds and their houses dilapidated. Idleness was the rule, work the exception. He bought a farm, stocked it, built a good house for his family and one for a store. He also engaged in coal mining. He employed about 100 men altogether, paying them good wages. He encouraged them by word and example to improve their condition. This soon began to bear fruit. Houses were repaired and painted, the fields and gardens better tilled and the roads put in passable condition. By donating money for a school house he induced the people to build it and send their children to school. In a short time a comfortable church building was erected and a pastor engaged. In short, the influence exin the community, which is now as noted for thrift and enterprise as it formerly was for slothfulness and decay. This is a striking instance of the value of riches when properly employed.

I know of one man who gives away ery cent of his income from a luro Their helping hands are extended to all classes of people in distress. Very few of them inherited their wealth. They accumulated it by hard work, in which their superior business capacity was an assurance of success. These men are examples for all of us to imitate. They are also public benefactors. It was largely through their instrumentality that our hospitals, reformatories and other charitable institutions were built, They have founded libraries and other public institutions. They are at the head of all the great enterprises of the day, contributing both time and money—and all for the benefit of the public, without desiring or expecting pecuniary reward. Without them Pittsburg would soon lose her pre-eminence as a business center. Their example has lifted many a man from poverty to affluence, as I have shown you in my own case. Rich men, as a rule, are entitled to honor rather than contumely. They serve a good purpose in lifting society from lower to higher levels of civilization."

Oil Lets Go With Everybody Looking for an

Advance. The oil market yesterday was a surprise to everybody. In the first edition of his diction-ary, Dr. Folsom described the crawfish as "an animal that advances backward." That was the way with oil. It took a step downward. Nearly everybody thought it would open bullish and make a nearer approach to the dollar line. But it went the other way. Various reasons were given for this unexpected maneuver in the face of everything that should enhance instead of depressing prices. While the slump was no doubt largely due to the covering of of shorts, a deeper reason may be found in the fact that secret influences are at work to maintain prices at about the present level. In other words, the market is being manipulated for a purpose, and it will move up or down, just as the powers behind the throne elect. No other satisfactory reason can be assigned for yesterday's slump. Left to itself, the market would have advanced, but the manipulators decided otherwise. This places the exchanges in the attitude of agents to carry out the will of the higher powers, who work the wire in secret. Viewed from this standpoint, it is no wonder that outsiders refuse to come in and be sheared. Individual judgment goes for nothing when the market is entirely under the control of an influence that cannot be openly combated.

The market enemed at 29½ sold down to 91½. the way with oil. It took a step downward.

The market opened at 92%, sold down to 91%, recovered, and later in the day rallied to 92%. This was followed by a period of depression, succeeded by a partial recovery. Twice during the afternoon the price touched 92%. Near the close it broke to 91%, which were the closing figures. The market was fairly active for an hour succeeding the market was fairly active for an hour succeeding the market was fairly active for ing figures. The market was fairly active for an hour succeeding the opening, by spells during the day, and especially in the last hour. There was good trading East and West, but mostly by professionals. Opinions as to what to day would bring forth were considerably mixed, some holding that the market would sell up and others maintaining that a lower level of prices would be reached. As between these conflicting views, each equally entitled to credence, the reader must judge for himself.

CALLED A HALT.

Stock Brokers Awalting Pointers From Washington Before Making Important Moves-The Bears in Control of the Market-Bonds Quiet. NEW YORK, February 27 .- The stock market was a little more active to-day, though the in-creased business was almost entirely owing to the heavier operations upon the bear side, which also had the effect of sagging the general list off, while some shares showed marked declines for the day, and prices at the close were about equal to those of Monday. There was very little news of a character to affect the market and operators are still in the waiting humor, the acceptance of the office tendered him by Mr. Walker, and the desire to know something of the policy of the incoming admin-istration, causing a holding off, which gives for the time being the making of quotations over to the bears and traders. There was a more to the bears and traders. There was a more general distribution of favors by the bears to day, and the Grangers, New England, Atchison, Missouri Pacific and the Coal stocks all felt the pressure at times.

London was again lower, and was apparently a seller in the early dealings, but there was a good demand at the figures, and for a time the market had a strong look, but the pressure became too strong when the first demand had been satisfied, and the downward movement became general, though slow. Chicago was the head center for bearish rumors, however, and reports of a discouraging nature from that region were numerous, and offset to a marked degree such tendency to advance as was shown in the forenoon. Protests by shippers in region were numerous, and offset to a marked degree such tendency to advance as was shown in the forenoon. Protests by shippers in Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota against the high through charges, the consideration of a new railroad law in Wisconsin and cutting of rates by several of the most influential lines were the principal burden of these reports.

A few strong spots were developed, and the Oregon shares showed a marked disposition to rally, though improvement, after reaching its best figures of yesterday, lost all the advance. Manhattan continued its upward movement and scored a handsome gain on a large business for that stock. The movements in the rest of the list, however, were small and unimportant. Dullness became the most prominent after 2 o'clock, and Manhattan made a sharp advance while the others sagged off slowly until the close of business, though Richmond and West Point was strong in the last hour. The close was quiet and heavy at the lowest prices of the day in many instances. Almost the entire active list is lower. Oregon Improvement lost 2 per cent; Denver, Texas and Ft. Worth, 13/2 Atchison and New England, 13/4 each, and Jersey Central 1 per cent, while Manhattan showed a gain at the close of 13/5 per cent.

There was a moderate degree of animation

hattan showed a gain at the close of 1½ per cent.

There was a moderate degree of animation in railroad bonds, but the same lack of special feature marked the trading, and no decided tendency of prices in either direction could be seen. The sales of all issues reached $1,457,000, but the only bond showing any special activity was Atlantic and Pacific 4s, which contributed $245,000. The most conspicuous advances were Jersey Central ists $24, to 105½; Illinois Central 4s of 1851 & to 108, and Louisville, New Atbany and Chicago 1sts $25, to 11.

Country Produce-Jobbing Prices.

At the meeting of the Elgin Butter Board Monday a 2c drop was agreed upon. The drop reaches this market Thursday and our quotations are changed to correspond. The price agreed on at Eligio was 28c for standard brands, and it is reported that, outside of the board, these figures were shaded 3/c. Ohlo creamery holds up fairly well to last week's prices. Eggs are firm at outside quotations for the nearby article. Cold storage eggs have well nigh run their course, and those left are very slow at 13 to 14c. An improved domand for tropical fruit is reported by dealers for a day or two past, and higher prices are close at hand. Florida oranges are growing scarce. An advance in our quotations of fancy oranges and bananas cannot be far away, from present indications. BUTTER— Creamery, Eigin, 31@32c; Ohio do

Receipts being above wants of trade, the cash customer finds the holder ready to make concessions. At the Grain Exchange to-day B. F. Veach reported in behalf of the committee which went to Harrisburg to represent the hody on the question now pending before the Legislature on the right of eminent domain. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Veach, referring to the body in session at the State Capital, seemed in doubt as to whether the Legislature represented the people or the P. R. The Exchange was clearly and unanimously of the opinion that all rallroad companies should have an equal chance in the race for supremacy.
